SULLIVAN IS FREE AGAIN.

HE IS RELEASED AT HARTFORD ON A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS.

Secured by the Chief of Police on a Telegram from New Lenox at Midnight—The Big Fighter Is Quietly Secured by the Deputy-A Cosmic Sheriff Chasing Prisoners Through Indiana—An Interview for Bill Muldoon—Sorts of the Fugitive.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 11.—[Special.]—The world-famous train on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad which pulled into the Hartford depot this afternoon at 12:07 o'clock had among other passengers John L. Sullivan, the champion slugger of the world, Mrs. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain, Mrs. Kilrain, Mrs. Frank Stone and Sullivan's wife, Mrs. Richard K. Fox, who was in charge of the party. Mr. Sullivan was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hogan, Mr. Fox's detective, and Mr. Hogan's assistant, Charles Gallagher, of Boston, Mass. Other passengers were Mr. Fox, Mr. Stone, Mr. Kilrain and Mr. Sullivan's brother, Jack Sullivan, of Boston, Mass. The party evidently had no thought of interruption on the part of officers of the law, as having arrived at their destination they made quick preparations to leave the train and were apparently in a hurry to get away from the depot. Hardly had they done so, however, when, as soon as the train came to a stop, it was boarded by J. H. Cheney, Chief of the Hartford police, and a party of deputies.

Chief Cheney was introduced to Clancy by an acquaintance and said very little to either of the Boston visitors until Sullivan was seen to the carriage at the front end of the depot and stepped to the sidewalk. The Chief, however, made the most of the opportunity, and, stepping up to the champion, whose face showed signs of recognition, said: "Mr. Sullivan, I am sorry to inform you that I have a warrant for your arrest, issued from the Governor of Tennessee, charging you with assault and battery committed upon a man named Richard K. Fox, and I shall be obliged to ask you to accompany me to the Police Court."

Sullivan, who was evidently taken by surprise, looked at the officer for a moment, and then, turning to Mr. Fox, said: "Dick, what does this mean?"

Mr. Fox replied that he knew nothing about it, and Sullivan, turning to the officer, said: "Well, I suppose I must go with you, but I don't see what right you have to arrest me in this State. I have been here for a week, and have been in the habit of coming and going as I please, and I don't see why I should be interfered with now."

Chief Cheney replied that he was sorry to be obliged to do his duty, but that he had a warrant for Sullivan's arrest, and must insist upon his accompanying him to the Police Court.

Sullivan then turned to Mr. Fox and said: "Dick, I don't see why you have done this. I have been treating you white, and I don't see why you should have treated me in this way. I suppose, however, I must go with the officer, but I don't see what right he has to arrest me in this State."

Mr. Fox replied that he knew nothing about it, and Sullivan, turning to the officer, said: "Well, I suppose I must go with you, but I don't see what right you have

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1889.

The Cook County, who still has days left, has to run since the arrest of the Pinkerton detectives, to the bill for White Hoods furnished years ago. Mrs. Fitz, who was seeking her self-interest, and so do Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Hartley, and Mrs. Cleveland. They have an evil trilogy ten to Providence—Hayes and Cleveland—and four others at time of writing.

Rumor was free in Chicago, tending to fight last week. Receptions were in badge demand. New York exchange and advance thereon. Selling was prolonged. Current stocks went up on a report that new collective wage-terms here.—The Chicago produce market here seemed entirely quiet at a less range of prices. Wheat measures because of the promise of cheap arrivals of new grain, and other cereals "affected" to sympathize. An unusual and Wednesday part was the chief fly-wave below, but I stole home, where every I made home for Jamieson and fly-wave some further south, and I came home, and I was home, and had my wave and Sunday fun.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution the day after the grain fight said:

We sincerely regret that Mr. John Evans did not succeed in cornering the World in Chicago yesterday. We have no sympathy with the Board of Trade gamblers, but we do sympathize with the farmers who have been robbed by the Evans-Hutchinson combination of the profits which should have been theirs. Mr. Evans is a Southern man, and we had hoped that he would succeed in his gigantic scheme. Perhaps he will yet succeed. We hope he will.

Mr. Wheeler's settlement involves that of the last two city cases between Jack and Kimball when and Kimball when and the Illinois Central right of way shall be offered for sale in two parcels over the property between Park-row and Madison avenue and not what took between Madison and Randolph. The title to these and the new to which they have been put are distinctive. The first, which made in the city from the Lake Commissioners, is partly held as a park. The second came from the General Government direct. Owing to the fact that it and also the Madison-Adams front were covered by the Lake Front act, the city of itself has been said for little but extra sums over the privilege of street paving charges. It is quite proper, therefore, to deal with these two pieces separately.

The one now sent for such purposes and separately accepted in part by the Republican Nothing which owns the acts. It should be whether to compel what is to be done—and to make worthy of the judgment which question is. Each owner now does say that his property is too valuable to be surrendered to save and grass, but the key one of fact is three very when it could get from the ground to the form of cost and taxes, and reasons it is for part of that large appropriation which was made [illegible] to the town of Lake city. Can the matters now [illegible] of the Lake Front Park System [illegible] and then [illegible] the Lake Front Commission, and [illegible] have been taken.

The Chicago Tribune says that Mr. John Evans, son of Florida, son of the St. Louis Standard, has taken to interfering with his own private and is telling his friends of the Commonwealth whom they must choose to represent them in the South when Mr. Farwell's term expires. The man whom he has chosen can be among the Northern agents of the "I" in the same—not old friend John B. Palmer. He must not run against Mr. Farwell for a seat in the House of Representatives, but must contemplate the task of addressing his dreams, which, according to his views, has become "phenomena and a magnesium."

Col. Jones-Jerome married—has been elected to see a letter recently written by the Constitution, in which he says that he does not want to run for the Governorship, because he does not wish his business.

A recent number of Judge contains the following paragraph: "Mr. Jones, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Illinois, is a man of wealth and influence, and is a man of the people." Judge is evidently not aware that Mr. Jones is a man of the people, and that he is a man of wealth and influence.

It would require a merciful system of immunity about that! In which Mr. Palmer the original petroleum ring, "screened for would save [illegible] Why! has he ever refused anything, from a seat in the State-Senate up to a Governorship? Can Jones ever have had Pre. of Kansas, or he would not be so much interested in this [illegible] to accept a seat in the United States Senate. He would make a place on the Evanston County Board of Supervisors if he could get he before.

Gen. Palmer is not pleased with the Senate as at present constituted. He says:

From the inception of the present war of words between Senator Hill, of New York, and Senator Gorman, of Maryland, the fact of the Democratic majority in the Senate of the United States being so small has been a source of great embarrassment to the party. Had the majority been large enough to have allowed Senator Hill to vote against the Force bill, and Senator Gorman to vote for it, the Democratic party would have been saved from the humiliation of seeing its leaders in the Senate engaged in a personal quarrel, which has already done the party much harm, and which bids fair to do it much more.

Gen. Palmer is a Democrat of the old school, and he is not the only one who is disgusted with the present condition of affairs in the Senate. The Democratic majority in the Senate is so small that it is impossible for the party to do anything without the votes of every Democrat in the Senate. Under the circumstances, the Democratic Senators who are opposed to the Force bill have a right to demand that the party shall not force it through the Senate, and they have exercised that right. The Democratic Senators who are opposed to the Force bill have a right to demand that the party shall not force it through the Senate, and they have exercised that right.
